Introduction : Media Reality in Bangladesh

Media in Bangladesh has been passing through a unnatural time with two major fears –fear of losing business as well as losing employment and fear of safety. Generally in all disasters, media professionals are frontliners and they perform their due duties courageously. But present disaster has changed everything but it is essential to perform due duties as it was. Work from home has given a solution to make them safe but country wide closer has created lots of uncertainties related to survival as organisation and individual. That closer has made major impacts on their livelihood, by restricting scopes of revenue generation from both sources- advertisement and circulation. Most of business are closed so it is obvious that scopes of revenue generation have limited. Side by side, media in Bangladesh has witnessed first death of media professional due to coronavirus infection and 34 are infected. Safe professional life is major concern. Though availability of online facilities are here and helped media to work but restricted their movement has made impacts in performing due duties. In this circumstances, all media houses came in one platform and made an appeal to the nation for going together for survival by publishing and a joint editorial.
